

Presents: 2 - 4:30 PM Oct 2nd, 2021

A free workshop by author

Alison Tedford

“Storytelling for Justice”

Do you wish your words could make a difference in the world? Do you want to see change? Join us and learn how to use storytelling to influence change, how to amplify your words and get in front of more people and how to tell stories responsibly.

Alison Tedford is a personal essayist, author, marketer and diversity consultant who teaches social justice to business owners. Her personal essays on Indigenous cultural issues have been published on CBC, Al Jazeera and Today's Parent and her next book talks about integrating social justice into your business.

Attendees must pre-register to get the ZOOM link.

Email Tri.City.Wordsmiths@Gmail.com to register

Alison Tedford is an author, Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Consultant and a mom. She is Indigenous (Kwakiutl First Nation) and based in Abbotsford, BC. She has over a decade of government experience and seven years of private sector experience creating information products that educate, inform and delight.

In her consulting, Alison creates an inviting space where questions are encouraged and welcome and that allows for growth and experimentation. She offers more than anti-racist coaching, she helps organizations craft responses to the need for people to belong and recognize the layers of identities we all have that goes beyond race. Inclusion is about disability, gender identity, and sexual orientation too.